Making Disciples: Spiritual CPR

LCN Disciple-Making Cohort

Message from the President: What is Your Post-Easter Plan?

Nathan Cline, LCN President, challenges pastors to plan to make new disciples after the excitement and crowds that typically come with Easter services. How does a disciple-maker approach Easter? What are you going to do in the weeks and months that follow to help new believers take their next steps in a lifelong relationship with Jesus? How can you take guests on Easter and turn them into new disciples for Jesus? Think, pray, and plan to make new disciples.

We have two more Refuel One Day sessions coming up in May. We will be going back to Albany, New York and Yorktown, Virginia. We hope you'll join us for this FREE conference. Please invite your staff and volunteers, pastor friends and interested lay people. It will be a time of teaching and preaching, worship and fellowships. Registration is now open.

New Leadership at Liberty University

Congratulations to Maj. Gen. (Ret.) Dondi E. Costin, Ph.D., on being named president and to Pastor Jonathan Falwell on being named chancellor of Liberty University. Among Dr. Costin's many achievements and accolades are his 32 years of commissioned service, during which he represented the Liberty Baptist Fellowship as an endorsed chaplain. In addition to his role as senior pastor of Thomas Road Baptist Church, Pastor Falwell has served as LCN Executive Chairman for many years.

Spiritual CPR

Ken Barner of Crossroads Ministries and the LCN Local Center in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, shares a way to challenge your congregation to make new disciples. Encourage them to practice spiritual CPR. C is for cultivation. Teach them to cultivate relationships with neighbors, friends, and coworkers. P is for plant. Show them how to plant seeds of the gospel. R is for reap. Equip them to pray for the harvest. These are the first steps to make new disciples who make new disciples.

LCN's Disciple-Making Cohort

Do you have the desire to make new disciples? Do you have the desire to help others make new disciples? We are developing a new Disciple-Making Pipeline Cohort and we want you to be a part of it. This will be a year-long journey for pastors to develop an intentional disciple-making process for their ministries.

Please submit your interest form here. Additional details will follow. We can't wait for you to join us!
