Message from the President: Your Summer Strategy

Many churches have a different ministry calendar during the summer months than throughout the rest of the year. Some churches simplify their schedule in anticipation of people traveling. Some churches pack out their schedule to keep people engaged through programming. Nathan Cline, LCN President, challenges you to think about how this change in the calendar affects your disciple-making strategy. How can you use the summer months to build momentum instead of losing it? How can you help your congregation stay focused on the mission of making new disciples?

Praying for New Disciples

Chris Rhodenhizer of Image Church and the LCN Local Center in Woodbridge, Virginia, challenges pastors and leaders to pray for new disciples. We should look to the early church in Acts to see how they prayed before they went out to share their faith. They were empowered by the Spirit to do what Jesus had told them to do. How do we help our congregations to do this? First, we pray personally. Then, we pray corporately. Thirdly, we pray specifically. Fourthly, we pray passionately. In order to carry out the mission to make new disciples, prayer is essential.
