Disciple Making Cohort: Do You Have a Disciple-Making System?

Every church wants to make disciples—but very few churches stop long enough to ask an important question: Do we actually have a clear system for making disciples? A healthy system creates intentionality. It helps churches move people toward spiritual growth in a way that is repeatable, sustainable, and effective.

That's exactly what the Disciple Making Cohort is designed to help pastors build. Through coaching, collaboration, and practical guidance from leaders actively doing the work, pastors are equipped to create a disciple-making pathway that fits their church and helps them continue making disciples and making disciples who make disciples for years to come.

Liberty Baptist Fellowship:
Serving Where You're Called

The Liberty Baptist Fellowship (LBF) exists to provide endorsement, pastoral care, and ongoing support for chaplains serving in a wide range of ministries. From military and healthcare to prisons, public safety, athletics, and corporate settings, LBF exists to strengthen those who are serving on the front lines in some of the most unique and challenging environments.

More than an endorsement body, LBF is a place of care and connection for chaplains at every level—whether full-time, part-time, or volunteer. Rooted in a legacy that began in 1981 under Dr. Jerry Falwell, LBF continues to stand alongside those called to bring faith into places the church doesn't always reach.

Local Centers: You Weren't Meant to Lead Alone

Some of the most meaningful ministry moments don't happen from a stage—they happen around a table with other pastors who understand the weight and joy of ministry. That's the heart behind LCN Local Centers. These monthly gatherings create space for encouragement, prayer, honest conversations, and practical disciple-making support alongside leaders serving in similar contexts.

Across the network, pastors are finding renewed strength through relationships that remind them they're not carrying ministry alone. As churches continue focusing on making disciples and making disciples who make disciples, Local Centers help create the kind of connection and encouragement that keeps leaders healthy and moving forward together.

The Mission Stays the Same: Making Disciples Through Every Season

Summer often brings a different rhythm to ministry, but the mission never changes. Across Liberty Church Network, we continue seeing pastors, churches, and leaders investing deeply in what matters most—making disciples and building churches that make disciples who make disciples.

Whether it's Vacation Bible School, summer camps, outreach events, mission trips, or simply faithful week-to-week ministry, God is using churches across the network to impact lives in powerful ways. We'd love to stay connected with what's happening in your ministry this summer.

As you head into these busy months, tag LCN in your posts and share what God is doing in your church and community. You can also send stories, photos, and ministry updates directly to media@libertychurchnetwork.com. We love highlighting the ways churches across the network are continuing to make disciples in their unique context.

LCN Membership: Investing in Disciple-Making Leaders for the Long Haul

Making disciples who make disciples starts with developing leaders who are grounded, equipped, and growing. Through Liberty Church Network membership, churches receive access to one of the most impactful benefits available to ministry leaders today—two 50% tuition scholarships to Liberty Theological Seminary for church staff members.

Whether it's a pastor pursuing deeper theological training, a ministry leader preparing for greater responsibility, or a church investing in future leaders from within, these scholarships help make that next step possible while leaders remain actively serving in the local church. Along with additional online and residential scholarship opportunities, it's one more way LCN is helping churches strengthen their ministries and continue the mission of making disciples.
